Chapter 1 by Conor Aedan Daniels

The sun was beautiful out and I didn't know if I should walk over and talk to her or if I should just stay over here. Well guess she made that choice for me. She started my way and I could feel my heartbeat racing and the blood pumping under my skin. The rush that I felt was amazing. She was so beautiful. The rays of the sun bounced off her dark brown hair. It made her look like some kind of goddess. She stood in front of me and held out her hand. She smiled at me and started saying "Come on."

I nodded and took her out stretched hand, following her out into the woods. She was giggling as we ran around the trees. I couldn't help but smile. We chased each other till we couldn't anymore. We clapped to the ground, breathing heavily. Our hands touched and I intertwined my hand in hers. She squeezed tight. I turned my head to look at her. Our eyes met and it felt like all of time stopped for the two of us. This moment felt like it could last forever.

The sun started to go down behind the tree line. I stood up and reached my hand out for her to grab. She smiled up at me and grabbed for my hand. I pulled her up to her feet. We walked hand in hand back to the camp site. We joined the others around the campfire. There was a lot of laughing and joy. She went and sat next to some of the other girls and I joined the guys on the opposite side. Every now and again I would catch her smile as she was talking.

All I can think about is kissing her perfect lips. As the memories of our first kiss run like a scene from some cheesy romance movie.

of condoms in my pocket and told me to be safe. When we headed out I handed her the keys to my truck. "I never let anyone drive my truck so you should feel special." She had giggled when I told her that. We got in and I told her how to get out to the beach I wanted to take her out too. When we got there I grabbed the blanket and we headed out for the sand. I grabbed her hand and told her I wouldn't let anything happen to her.

When we found a spot I laid the blanket out and we sat down. I took my shoes off and rolled up my pants so that we could go dip our feet in the water. I picked her up and ran for the water. I spun her around and then set her down as a wave rushed up. We stood there for a minute. I picked her up again and ran back for the blanket. I laid her down, hovering over her before leaning in allowing our lips to touch for the first time. In that moment everything rushed in and I was so grateful for that moment.

It was my idea to do this bonfire I thought that it would be a great way to escape for a night. We all needed it. We all just deal with so much shit on a day to day that it's good to just get away sometimes. There was music and food. It seemed like everyone was having a blast. She walked over and sat in my lap. Lacing her fingers through my hair, I pulled her close, running my hands over her hips. She ran her hands over my stubble covered face and pulled me in for a kiss.

Pressing my forehead to hers "What was that for?"

"I couldn't help myself. You just are so amazing to kiss and I wanted and excuse to come sit on you as well"

"Well I hope that you got what you came over here for."

"I did, very much so actually."

A laugh escaped her lips. There was a smile on her face and in her eyes and it made her look even more beautiful.

I didn't really want to get attached to this girl but I just couldn't help myself. She walked into my life when I wasn't really looking for anything. Now I can't keep her off my mind. She's my first thought in the morning and my last thought at night. I am falling for her but I don't know if she feels the same way about me or not. I have asked her but all she had to say was "I don't know what this is between us but I do like you and I like whatever this is."

I really didn't want to get this caught up in this girl but that is exactly what I did. Sometimes I
